Defining paganism, processes of Christianisation in the Early Middle Ages A workshop

13 May 2016 | 14.00-18.00 | Drift 6 room 0.07

This workshop discusses the processes of Christianisation in the Early Middle Ages. The focus shall be on concepts of 'paganism' as employed in these processes. This should provide a basis to discuss what can be known about 'pagan religions' in this period in order to develop further methodological and theoretical reflexions on the topic.

Each participant will give a short presentation (max. 20 minutes) based on his or her own research. Scholars of different levels will contribute to the workshop – from senior researchers to master students. Plenty of time will be reserved for debate, as it is the aim of this workshop to exchange perspectives. The workshop is open to all.

To stimulate debate the following reading material is recommended:

James Palmer, 'Defining Paganism in the Carolingian World', Early Medieval Europe, 15,4 (2007), 402–425.
